Elite Software Training Location

Tradewinds is very excited to announce that the Elite Software Training will be held in the Seminar Barn at Brazos de Dios.

This unique facility has much to offer. The comfortable seminar room is located in a refurbished building, which was built about 1750 in the Schoharie Valley of New York state.

Brazos de Dios is the home of Homestead Craft Village, located a few miles north of Waco. The Seminar Barn is centered in a model homestead and is one of several historic buildings that have been rescued from destruction in their original settings in the Northeastern United States and moved to Waco and restored.

Directly across the road is the Homestead Gristmill. This beautiful structure, built around 1760, comes from the hilly area of northwestern New Jersey that was settled by German Moravians and is known as the Long Valley. This mill is once again grinding grain using a water wheel. Fresh flour and mixes are made here daily.

A short walk away from the seminar facility is the Homestead Deli & Bakery, which serves fresh-squeezed lemonade, homemade soups, sandwiches on bread made fresh daily in the bakery, brisket and hamburgers made with all-natural grass-fed beef, pastries, pies and ice cream. This is where the meals for the training will be served.

There is not enough space here to give details about all the buildings and workshops at Brazos de Dios. The craft village is so interesting that often students will bring their wives along and let them explore the property while the class is in session. We believe that you will enjoy your time at Brazos de Dios and we are pleased to offer this location for the training (for more information, see: www.homesteadheritage.com).

The list of additional attractions includes, but is not limited to:

- Heritage Forge – see a blacksmith fashion beautiful wrought ironwork
- The Potter's House – watch the potters throw original pottery
- Homestead Farm & Garden Center – feed and garden supplies located in an historic restored barn

The Barn

Originally built by Dutch settlers in northern New Jersey during the early 1800's, our restored barn now showcases the work of our community craftsmen here at Brazos de Dios. This two-story Dutch-English structure stands as a unique testimony to barn architecture—its 200-year-old chestnut and oak frame still secured with the original hand-cut mortise and tenon joints, locked in place by oak pegs.

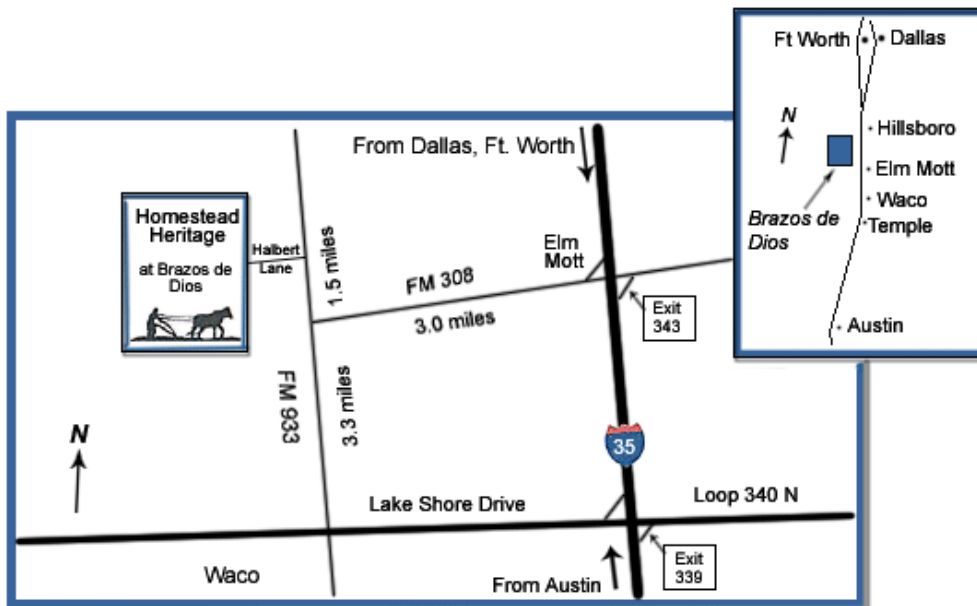

Inside you'll find our handcrafted furniture and accessories plus hundreds of one-of-a-kind heirloom gift items—pottery, wrought iron, quilts, handmade brooms and baskets, mesquite shepherd's lamps, wooden cutting boards and spoons, oil lamps, beeswax candles, natural soaps, needlework, original watercolors, cards, children's storybooks and homesteading how-to's as well as Homestead Farms specialty foods and Homestead Gristmill Baking Mixes.
